

Station/Stop Amenities

Many transit systems today provide features that make waiting for transit vehicles more comfortable and boarding more efficient. Left: Off-board payment machines speed up the boarding of buses and trains

Variable message boards offer real-time information to passengers about the arrival of trains and service delays

System maps; schedules; clear, easy-to-interpret signage; and information about nearby points of interest also enhance the transit experience for passengers

Seating areas can be more than just practical, they can tie into the theme of stops. Below, streetcar stop seats in Tacoma's theater district

Security cameras are becoming more prevalent at transit stations and stops

In-Town Transit Partnership Project

- ➔ Purpose and Need
- ➔ Alternatives
- ➔ EIS Issues

